Execution of John Traviss-His Con-

[From the Toronto Leader, Feb. 2a.]

The first execution which has taken place within the presencts of the new jail took place in the eastern yard in rear of the jail yesterday morning. The unfortunate victim was the young man John Traviss, who, as our readers will remember, was convicted of the murier of hir. John Johnston, a farmer residing in East Gwillimbury, by shooting him with a revolver on the 23d of last November, a short distance from the murdered man's house. The motive prompting the commission of the crimo appeared to be an ill-feeling which the murdered when the prompting the commission of the crimo appeared to be an ill-feeling which the murdered when the prompting the commission of the crimo appeared to be an ill-feeling which the murdered when the place of the strained towards Traviss, and by his saying something detrimental to the character of the latter to a young girl maned Nichols, the daughter of a farmer residing in the neighborhood, and to whom Traviss was paying his addresses.

The scaffold, which had been prepared in the city, was taken to the jail and fixed under the western wall of the eastern yard in rear of the building. The platform was about nine feet above the level of the ground; the drop was about four feet six inches square, and was held in its place by a spring bolt which was worked by a lever. Beneath the scaffold a note had been excavated some five feet in depth, in order that there might be sufficient fall for the body. The scaffold was ascended by a step-ladder from the yard.

They coung man was visited in his cell, which was contenses and four of his male relations wednesday morning atten o'clock. They remained in prayer and conversation with mit until eleven cy'clock at night, when they took their farewell, the separation of the prisoner and his friends being of the most distressing and heartronding description. Art. Wikke, of the Young Men's Orinstain Association, with other memoers, the Kev. James Curtis, Mechodist Episcopal Church: the Kev. Mr. Rice, Bible Ohristian Church, and the Rev. Mr. Here, Bible Ohristian Church, and the Rev. Mr. Hamer venualized in prayer and communion with the prisoner cutting the the might and until the hour of his excited the prayer and the prayer with the his continued to be resigned to his fatos, but conversed very little. He was greatly affected at intervals, allowing his tears to now freezy. Snorty after his friends had gone he retired to rest and slept until half-past twieve o'clock, when he left his bod. After this hour the prisoner continued in prayer with those present until near continued in prayer with those present until near property for the his hour the prisoner continued in prayer with those present until near property for the his continued at the fall about a quarter to nine o'clock, and in executions. The Stern'i, poppiny Sherif, br. technarics of the pall, and the executioner proceeded to the condemend man's cell at five minutes to mine o'clock, when the process of pinnoning was gone through. The prisoner was then conducted to the scaffold in the syard, where about flity persons were assembled, including the officer's of the pall, a detachment of police, and the members of the press, with a few minutes of the press. The unfortunate man ascended the scaffold with a firm and to the step in the pall the process of the press.

The unfortunate man ascende meeting in the Methodist Episcopal courcil. Mr. Nichous family were there, but I did not speak to them, and at the second singing one of Mr. Johnston's sons and Learne out. Passing by Johnston's door young Johnston pressed me to go is and stop, the night, to which I assented. This was about nine o'clock, and the family did not go to bed until near twerve. There was not much said by Mr. and Mrs. Johnston to me, and I retired with my usual kindly feeling for the young people and still with revengeful feelings about eight o'clock Johnston started in the sleigh for Queenswile, and as a mile of the road was in the same direction I wanted to go I jumped in the sleigh too. I believe he would have ordered me out, but he knew I would not go, so we went on. I treat to and out what he had said about me at Mr. Nichole', but he gave no satisfaction, and I feit desperate. As we came to where I intended to leave, near my sister's place, I was in the safe to 1 stepping out, with one foot still in the sleigh, when I turned half round and discharged the pistol just behind his ear, which took fatal effect. He never saw the platol, nor had any leas of my intention. He immediately dropped down in the sleigh, the horses keeping on their way, while I walked across to my sister's and told ber what had happened. The Customs Regulations of the United States of Colombia. COLOMBIAN CONSULATE, NEW YORK, Feb. 7, 1872.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD:your issue of the 5th inst., stating that "Recent changes in the customs regulations of Colombia are changes in the customs regulations of Colombia are of such important and complicated a nature as to call for strict attention on the part of merchants doing business with those States. The changes nave been made, but what end they subserve, unless to impose on shippers who may be ignorant thereof, is difficult to divine." And then the writer proceeds to give a correct summary of those regulations which are in existence and enacted since the years 1866 and 1868.

If the writer had only referred to the laws of those years he would have saved himself the trouble of making an incorrect commentary.

Allow me to inform your readers that no new tariff laws have been enacted in Colombia, and that in the regulations recently issued by the Secretary of the Treasury there is nothing new—absolutely nothing—with the exception of imposing a fine'on a difference of five per cent in the weight of invoice instead of the ten per cent, as heretofore. Very respectfully, yours,

Consul of Colombia.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

The course of trade the past week was interrupted by the pending legislation upon the tariff and the intervention of a holiday. The difficulties incidental to any change in the duties on imported goods are already beginning to manifest themselves, and the several interests in tea and codee, whiskey and tobacco have been greatly exercised as to the shape Congressional legislation will assume.

It is a season, too, when an agitation of this character is productive of much evil, for with the prospect of a changed basis for prices in the summer, succeeding the close of the fiscal year, the merchants are disposed to limit their transactions to current needs. It is true the imports from week to week are very heavy, but the goods now week to week are very heavy, but the goods now coming were bought months ago—before even Congress had got together, and before Presiden. Grant proposed so sweeping an abolition of tariff imposts as that advocated in his message. In articles not so closely affected by these influences the movement has been moderate. Wheat brightened up in the beginning of the week, but relapsed into its chronic dulness. Cotton was unsettled and at the close weak, under an impression tied and at the close weak, under an impression that the heavy demand for money at the South just now means a more extended cultivation this year.

and consequently a heavier crop in 1872-73 than in 1871-72. The market at the Stock Exchange was in the main dult, and dealings were still confined to the more professional class of operators and brokers. The chief feature of the week was the collapse of the great "bull" movement in Union Pacific, owing to the alleged treachery of some members of the combination. The stock on Mon-day had progressed as far as 38%, when a leak in the "corner" was discovered, which soon widened to a considerable breach owing to the consequent demoralization of a number of outsiders who had joined the rising movement in hopes of despite the desperate efforts of the clique to hold it, and by Saturday had fallen to 32%, recovering at the close to 344. The other leading specialty now in the hands of a clique—viz., Pacific Mail—aiter a hesitating and on the whole steady market, be-came buovant and advanced to 59%, when it was known that the company had been compelled to charter an extra steamer—making two for next week—to do the business required of them. The general market was lower under the influence of more active money, which was worth on Friday and Saturday as much as 1-16 a ½ per cent a day in addition to legal interest. The Custom House in taking in so much specie daily for duties has weakened the coin reserve of the banks, while with a flow of currency to the South the greenback reserve is also impaired. The domestic exchanges are almost at a standstill as between this city and the West; but the demand in the South is reflected in the rates for New York drafts at New Orleans, which are one-quarter per cent discount.

With the return of the Legislature to Albany a renewed and strong effort will be made to pass the measure repealing the Eric Classification act.
Every merchant, banker and business man in the city, State and county who wields any induence whatever with any member of the Legislature should exert his persuasive powers to their utmost capacity in heiping this movement, than which there is hardly any other more important to their several interests. The chicacery and corruption of the Ring in the management of the Eric Raliroad have done incalculable harm to our interests in Europe, where the enhancement of our credit has had to fight constantly the taunts and reproach of those who have pointed out the Erie corporation as a warning against help to American enterprise. Competent financial authorities have estimated that the Erie swindle has cost the country a hundred millions annually in the check it has given to the investment with us of foreign capital—a statement at which we cannot wonder, in view of the glut of money in London, where the temporary inter-est rate is now and has been for nearly a year only 2½ a 3 per cent. Now that this great measure of reform is contemplated, every good citizen should contribute what he can toward its consummation. "A long pull, a strong pull and a pull all together," and we may lift from our good name the deep discredit and disgrace of this Erie infamy.

In the gold market there has been a steady rise from 1103/ to 111, under the growing discrepancy between the mercantile exports and imports, and between the outcome from the Treasury and the payments thereinto, not to speak of the firmer tone of the foreign exchange, and an advance for the week in sterling of quite a quarter per cent. The policy of Mr. Boutwell in adhering to small gold sales, outside of its aileged object in diverting Congress from a too close inquiry as to the excess of the revenue over the needs of the government, is possi the cooler relations existing between the United States and Great Britain, the foreign market for the new loan offers no very hopeful prospect of providing the menns of redeeming the forty millions of five-twenties, which he has "called" for March, and which, being held almost entirely in Europe, will, in lieu of corresponding subscriptions to the new loan, tax the coin resources of the Treasury to the extent of about thirty-five millions of dollars. Government bonds were firm, but without special activity. Toward the close the currency issues tell off as a consequence of the advance in gold.

intended lock-up of greenbacks a much worse one was looked for. The chief feature is a loss of over was looked for. The chief feature is a loss of over a million and a half in specie, the average of which is a falling one, owing to the enormous payments for customs during the week. Although there were only five business days the gold receipts for duties at the Custom House were $4,913,000. On two days, Monday and Friday, the receipts each day were over a million dollars. With this loss in specie there is a loss of about half a million in greenbacks. The banks, in view of this loss of reserve, have been compelled to contract their loans, and the itabilities compelled to contract their loans, and the nabilities show a total decrease of $4,379,000. DRY GOODS MARKET.

Cotton goods have been specially active during the week in the package trade, and the cotton goods market generally is so strong that the demand throughout is in excess of the supply. The woollen goods department does not sympathize with this strength, a constant over-supply tending to keep prices below the desirable level.

Brown sheetings and shirtings have advanced in standards to 15c., and that this price will be sustained is shown by the barrenness of the market. In fine brown the receipts fall largely below the demand, and a further advance is predicted on Bleacned sheetings and shirtings are very active in grades from 18c. and below, while the finer qualities have only a fair movement. The New York Mills has advanced to 22c., and the Amoskeag, 4-4, to 16%c.

Drills have advanced to 15%c., and the movement

Mills has advanced to 22c., and the Amoskeag, 4-4, to 16½c.

Drills have advanced to 15½c., and the movement continues good.
Cottonades are fairly active. Hampdon R is quoted at 37½c.; Verona at 22½c.; Cable at 27½c.; our-yard blaid at 20c.; do. plain at 19c.; eight-ounce extra blue at 35c.
Tickings are moving well in all lines, prices remaining unchanged.

Stripes are improving in activity, and stocks are well reduced. Whittenton A is quoted at 17c.; do. B, 15c.; do. C, 13½c.; American, 12½c. a 13¾c.

Prints have moved in large quantities by the package, and receipts are well kept down. The distributing trade is not so satisfactory, and so far only new effecs are selected. There are reasons for predicting an advance, though no certainty can be arrived at at present.

Dress goods are moving well, and the market is closely sold up. The styles of American dress goods are constantly improving, and both production and demand nave increased within the year.

Woollen goods have improved, and there has been a large movement from first hands, and indications give reason to hope for better prices.

Cloths are in good request for cost and middle grades, with an upward tendency. Doessins are in moderate request and prices growing stronger, and coatings and meltons are inquired for, cloth-faced goods and Scotch styles being preferred.

Repeliants are being looked up, though present transactions are small. Cumberland is quoted at $1 35, Lewiston at $1 25, and the Lebattos at $1 20, with a prospect of higher prices.

Sannets are more inquired for, though there is no special activity.

Kentucky jeans are in good request, the fine heavy goods naving advanced 12½ per cent. Southwest doeskins show an advance to 60c, and orders are piaced ahead.

Flannets are moving fairly, considerable inquiry being made for operas. F and C flannels are neid firmly at 60c. The supply is small and the demand good, and therefore prices must improve.

Fancy cassimeres have changed hands to a large extent, but prices have not warranted any great pro

THE MULBERRY STREET BUTCHERY. Death of Patrilla-Post-Mortem Examina-

In last Friday's HERALD was a detailed and com plete report of the terrible stabbing affray which occurred the day previous in the rear yard of the tenement house 37 Mulberry street, during which Giovanni Patrilla, an Italian, was fearfully stabbed in the abdomen and several other parts of the body by a murderous-looking kulie in the hands of Mi-chel Rosa, also an Italian. Patrilla was forthwith carried to the Centre Street Hospital and placed under the care of Surgeons Vandewater and carried to the centre Street Hospital and Amablie, who rendered every possible aid to the victim, but with little or no hope of saving his life. Patrilla could not be rallied, and, sinking gradually, died at a late hour on Saturday night. Coroner Young was notified and took charge of the case. The friends being very anxious to remove the remains of deceased to his late residence, Deputy Coroner Marsh made a post-mortem examination on the body and found a stab wound of the abdomen (left side), the steel penetrating to the depth of several inches, severing the membranes lining the intestines. This wound caused death. The other wounds, although severe, were not necessarily fatal. In the opinion of the medical gentlemen peritonitis, the result of a stab wound of the abdomen, was the cause of death. The Coroner's investigation will not take place for two or three days. Captain Kennedy, of the Sixth precinct, has secured all the important witnesses in the case.

THE SUICIDE OF ELLEN SIGGINS.

Coroner Young yesterdsy held an inquest at 311 East Forty-first street, over the remains of Eilen Siggins, the domestic who was supposed to have died from the effects of poison administered by herself, as heretofore published in the Henald. Mrs.

Sarah Brown, with whom deceased lived, gave testimony which corroborated the HERALD's report in every important particular. After being taken sick every important particular. After being taken sick Ellen ejected from her stomach a dark green substance, which proved to be Paris green. Deceased had long been melancholy in consequence of disappointment in a love affair, and often wished she was dead. Whenever Ellen saw a funeral procession passing the house she regretted it was not her own funeral. In his examination Deputy Coroner Marsh found that acute gastritis, the result of taking Paris green, was the cause of death, and such was the verdict of the jury. The remains were taken in charge by the aunt of deceased, living in Brooklyn, who will give them a decent burial. It could not be learned where deceased procured the poison with which she took her life, she having studiously kept that matter from her relatives and friends.
